God's Story to Tell

I once was discussing with a friend the problem of people wanting to know something that I know, and not being able to share the information they want. My firm and almost automatic response to prying questions about somebody else's predicament, problems or health is to tell them to talk directly to the person they want to know about. A friend once told me that a good response would be to say that what they want to know about is, "It's not my story to tell." I have begun to use that phrase with myself and with other people occasionally. I have found it to be a check on my need to say something, and also a profound truth about people's lives, decisions and struggles. Often it is true that it is someone else's story to tell. It is their story to share, shape or keep to themselves. I have neither the obligation nor the duty to tell their story for them. It is their story to tell, and it is in their telling that the truth of who they are is freely shared and understood.

I find that in pondering this simple truth, I can find a new depth of meaning in the Holy Week pilgrimage we begin today. Our celebration of the passion, death and resurrection of Jesus, the Paschal Mystery, is a celebration of the core and center of our faith. From before the beginning of time God planned to save us through his son, Jesus Christ. Across millennia, centuries and ages he guided all of history to the moment of our salvation. In our celebrations this week we enter into the mystery of God's love and power. We walk with the Lord towards a new understanding of our compassionate God. This is the story that God has been telling us throughout the ages. In Jesus' self-sacrifice we see the love of God confronting the power of evil, sin and death. We see the power of love, mercy and compassion shielding us and raising us up to new life.

Like many stories in our lives, this story is told a little at a time. God reveals Himself to us gradually, and invites us to enter into the story and to be transformed by it. The doorway to the story of our salvation was the simple act of taking a palm and entering into this holy time with the Lord. Our acclamation of the Lord's entry into Jerusalem for our salvation is a promise to be wrapped in the story of salvation. It is a sign of our willingness to hear the story told and a beginning of a pilgrimage to salvation.

Our participation in the celebrations of Holy Thursday, Good Friday, the Easter Vigil and Easter Masses draws us into salvation and transforms our lives. The challenge for us this week is to be steadfast in our resolution to be present. The blessings of this sacred time depend on our willingness to participate. God will tell us the story that is His to tell, and for those who choose to listen to the end, it will be a fountain of new life.

Pontifical Good Friday Collection: Pope Francis has asked our parish to support the Pontifical Good Friday Collection, which helps Christians in the Holy Land, where they are now less than 2% of the population. Your support is essential in helping the Church minister in parishes, provide Catholic schools, and offer religious education. The Pontifical Good Friday Collection also helps to preserve the sacred shrines of Christianity, including in Jerusalem, Nazareth and Bethlehem. The pandemic hit Christians there particularly hard. Most of them depend on pilgrimages for work. The war made their situation even more dramatic. In these times of crisis, the Pontifical Good Friday Collection is necessary to meet the basic needs of the People of God still living in this Land and to maintain a Christian presence where the Church was born. When you contribute you join with Catholics around the world in solidarity with the Church in the Holy Land. PLEASE BE GENEROUS! For more information about Christians in the Holy Land, visit www.myfranciscan.org or www.custodia.org.
